The UNESCO Chair on Intercultural Competences hosted by Stellenbosch University is organizing its 1st Annual Conference in Nairobi, Kenya, at Strathmore University.

The theme of the Conference is Exploring Intercultural Competences in an African Context.

The specific sub themes are:

- How do aspects of Intercultural Competence intersect, interact and influence climate action, gender equality, or peacebuilding?
- The existence and use of intercultural practices in pre-colonial times.
- Intercultural tools available to the practitioner (for example; Cultural diversity and ethics; Ethical encounters and interactions; Culturally responsive teaching; Collaborative Online International (intercultural) Learning (COIL); tools for understanding values across multi-cultural and multi-religious societies)
